About the TOEIC® Speaking and Writing Tests

The TOEIC® Speaking and Writing tests are English-language proficiency tests for people whose native language is not English. They were developed to assess the English-language speaking and writing skills needed in the workplace and everyday life. TOEIC® Speaking and Writing scores indicate how well a person can communicate in English with others in a business setting. The test does not require specialised knowledge or vocabulary beyond that of a person who uses English in everyday workplace activities. When the TOEIC Speaking and Writing tests are taken together with the TOEIC® Listening and Reading test, they provide a reliable measurement of all four English language communication skills.

TOEIC® Speaking Test Format

The TOEIC® Speaking test is designed to measure a person's ability to communicate in spoken English in the context of daily life and the global workplace. The test is composed of eleven tasks and takes approximately 20 minutes to complete. The range of ability among English learners who will take the TOEIC Speaking test is expected to be broad; that is, both very capable speakers and speakers of limited ability can take the test. The test is designed to provide information about language ability to speakers across a range of language proficiency levels. To this end, the tasks are organised to support the following three claims.

1. The test taker can generate language intelligible to native and proficient non-native English speakers.
2. The test taker can select appropriate language to carry out routine social and occupational interactions (such as giving and receiving directions, asking for and giving information, asking for and giving clarification, making purchases, and greetings and introductions).
3. The test taker can create connected, sustained discourse appropriate to typical daily life and the workplace.

These claims are meant to be hierarchical. A test taker who can successfully complete the tasks that support the third claim will probably be very successful at carrying out the tasks that support the first and second claims. Conversely, the tasks that support the third claim will distinguish between moderately high-level speakers and very high-level speakers.

The following table shows how the tasks in the TOEIC Speaking test are organised.

Question	Task	Evaluation Criteria
1–2	Read a text aloud	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Pronunciation• Intonation and stress
3–4	Describe a picture	All of the above, plus <ul style="list-style-type: none">• Grammar,• Vocabulary, and• Cohesion
5–7	Respond to questions	All of the above, plus <ul style="list-style-type: none">• Relevance of content and• Completeness of content
8–10	Respond to questions using information provided	All of the above
11	Express an opinion	All of the above

TOEIC® Writing Test Format

The TOEIC® Writing test is designed to measure a person's ability to use written English to perform communication tasks that are typical of daily life and the global workplace. The test is composed of eight tasks and takes approximately one hour to complete. As with the TOEIC Speaking test, the range of ability among English learners who will take the TOEIC Writing test is expected to be broad. The test is designed to provide useful information about test takers across a range of language proficiency levels.

The tasks in the TOEIC Writing test are organised to support the following three claims about test taker performance.

1. The test taker can produce well-formed sentences, including both simple and complex sentences.
2. The test taker can produce multisentence-length text to convey straightforward information, questions, instructions, narratives, etc.
3. The test taker can produce multiparagraph-length text to express complex ideas, using reasons, evidence, and extended explanations as appropriate.

Because these claims are hierarchical, task difficulty increases as the test taker progresses through the test. The first claim describes test takers at lower levels of English-language proficiency. Test takers who can successfully complete the tasks that support the second and third claims will probably be very successful at carrying out the tasks that support the first claim. At the same time, the tasks that support the third claim will distinguish between moderately high-level and very high-level writers of English.

The following table shows how the tasks in the TOEIC Writing test are organised.

Question	Task	Evaluation Criteria
1–5	Write a sentence based on a picture	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Grammar• Relevance of the sentences to the pictures
6–7	Respond to a written request	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Quality and variety of your sentences• Vocabulary• Organisation
8	Write an opinion essay	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Whether the opinion is supported with reasons and/or examples• Grammar• Vocabulary• Organisation

Keyboard Requirements

The TOEIC® Speaking and Writing tests are administered on a standard English-language (QWERTY) computer keyboard. QWERTY is the most common modern-day keyboard layout on English-language computer keyboards. It takes its name from the first six letters displayed at the top of the keyboard. It is recommended that you practice typing on a QWERTY keyboard before taking the TOEIC Speaking and Writing tests.

What score do I need to “pass” the TOEIC Speaking and Writing tests?

The TOEIC Speaking and Writing tests are not the kind of tests that one passes or fails. Not every job or task requires the same level of English proficiency. The TOEIC Speaking and Writing tests measure many levels of ability, allowing people to demonstrate what they currently can accomplish in English. The single, continuous scale also makes it possible for learners to set attainable goals and to measure their progress as their English improves.

Many companies use the TOEIC Speaking and Writing tests to set their own score standards based on the levels of English necessary to carry out particular responsibilities. Your company may require employees to have a minimum TOEIC score due to the corresponding level of English that is needed on the job. Many companies offer English language training to help their employees reach target TOEIC scores, which reflect specific levels of proficiency based on professional need.

Also, academic institutions may use certain cut scores to place students in the appropriate English language course in their training programme or for exit exam purposes.

What context do questions in the TOEIC Speaking and Writing tests present?

The TOEIC Speaking and Writing tests are set in contexts appropriate for daily life and the global workplace. They include tasks that people might perform in work-related situations or in familiar daily activities that are common across cultures. If I have a disability, can I still take the TOEIC® Speaking and Writing tests?

If you require special testing arrangements because of a disability, please contact your local EPN member to discuss your needs at least six weeks in advance of the test date. Your local EPN member will make every effort to accommodate you. There is no additional cost for special accommodations. Among the accommodations that can be provided are extended testing time, large print, and braille versions of the test, or other aids customarily used by the test taker. All requests for accommodations must be approved in accordance with TOEIC® programme policies and procedures. These procedures are located on the website at <https://www.ets.org/toeic/test-takers/speaking-writing/disability-accommodations/>

How long does it take to receive scores for the TOEIC Speaking and Writing tests after an administration?

It takes approximately 14 business days to receive your scores for the TOEIC® Speaking and Writing tests. Contact your local ETS Preferred Network Office for specific dates.

Do the TOEIC Speaking and Writing tests measure the proficiency of listening and reading skills indirectly?

Language skill levels are related because of the nature of language learning; the skills of listening and speaking or of reading and writing are often used together. For most people, there is quite a strong correlation among the four language skills. Over time, however, if you practice some skills (for example, reading and listening) much more often than you practice others, then the correlation may change. While the TOEIC® Listening and Reading tests are indirect measures of speaking and writing proficiency, the TOEIC Speaking and Writing tests are more direct measures of productive skills.

Which should I take first, the TOEIC® Listening and Reading test or the TOEIC Speaking and Writing tests?

You should take the test that will give you the information or feedback that you need. For example, if you want to demonstrate how well you can speak and write in English, then you should take the TOEIC Speaking and Writing tests. Similarly, if you want to provide a prospective employer with an indication of your English listening and reading skills compared with those of other candidates, then it would be better to take the TOEIC Listening and Reading test first. From a learning point of view, it is not important which test you decide to take first.

Preparing to Take the TOEIC[®] Speaking and Writing Tests

How to Get Ready to Take the TOEIC[®] Speaking and Writing Tests

The TOEIC[®] Speaking and Writing tests are not based on the content of any particular English course but, rather, on your proficiency — your overall ability to speak or write in English. Improvement in proficiency may take some time and is generally achieved through a combination of practice and study. The TOEIC Speaking and Writing tests do not test business knowledge, and you are not required to know specialised business and technical vocabulary beyond that of a person who uses English in everyday life and work activities.

Before taking the TOEIC Speaking and Writing tests, you can do several things to prepare for the tests and to improve your English proficiency:

- Become familiar with the test format. You can then focus your attention on the questions themselves rather than on the format. Carefully review the test directions and the sample questions in this handbook.
- Immerse yourself in the language as frequently as possible and in as many ways as possible if it has been some time since you have had contact with English. Reading, watching TV and videos, listening to recordings, taking an English course, and speaking with friends and colleagues are some of the ways to practice English.
- Your local ETS Preferred Network Office may provide test preparation books to help you prepare for the TOEIC Speaking and Writing tests. Contact your local ETS Preferred Network Office for information.

The official TOEIC[®] website has many resources you may find helpful to familiarise yourself with the test:

- test preparation material
- scoring information
- frequently asked questions (FAQs)

Identification Requirements

All test takers must read Part 1. Depending on whether you will be taking the test within or outside your country of citizenship, you must also read either Part 2 or Part 3, as appropriate.

Part 1: Information for All Test Takers

- You must have acceptable and valid ID with a signature and photograph to be admitted to a test centre. Expired documents are not acceptable.
- The photograph on your ID document must be recent and recognizable. Original documents must be presented; copies are not acceptable. Identification requirements are strictly enforced. It is your responsibility to read and understand the instructions and requirements.
- If you don't have one government issued ID with both a photograph and a signature, you may present two primary government-issued photo IDs without signatures.
- If you arrive at the test centre without the required identification, the test administrator will not admit you, you cannot take the test, and you forfeit your test fee.

When registering for the test, you must use exactly the same name that appears on the primary identification document you will present at the test centre. Make sure to provide your entire first (given name) and entire surname (family name). Do not register under a nickname. If the name shown on your primary identification does not match the name used at registration, you will not be permitted to take the test. Check the name on your registration confirmation document. If the name does not match the name on your primary ID document, contact your local ETS Preferred Network Office.

- Only misspellings of your name can be corrected at check-in — name changes will not be made. If your name has changed for any reason, including marriage, you must still present primary identification in the name under which you registered, or you will not be permitted to take the test.
- If the test centre administrator questions the ID you present, you will be required to present a secondary ID.
- If positive confirmation cannot be made, you may be refused admission to the test centre and forfeit your test fee. Admittance to the test centre does not imply that your form of identification is valid or that your scores will be reported. All reported cases of questionable ID are subject to review and approval by the ETS Office of Testing Integrity and/or the EPN office.
- Test centre personnel will check your identification before assigning you a seat at the test centre. The administrator will check your signature to verify that you are the person in your photo identification.

The candidate certifies that the information provided at registration and as part of the testing procedure is accurate. Any inaccuracy will have to be rectified by ETS Global. Therefore, the candidate agrees to submit to any information verification request from ETS Global within seven (7) working days. ETS Global reserves the right to withhold test scores should the candidate fail to comply.

Score Holds and Cancellations

ETS and the local ETS Preferred Network Office reserve the right to take any and all actions — including, but not limited to, barring you from taking any future ETS tests and/or withholding or cancelling your scores — for failure to comply with test administration regulations or the test administrator’s directions or where the validity of the scores is questionable. If your scores are cancelled, they will not be reported, and your registration and test fees will not be refunded. ETS and the local ETS Preferred Network Office make every effort to report scores that accurately reflect the performance of every test taker. Accordingly, ETS standards and procedures for administering tests have two primary goals: to give all test takers equal opportunities to demonstrate their abilities, and to prevent any test taker from gaining an unfair advantage over others. To promote these objectives, ETS and the local ETS Preferred Network Office reserve the right to withhold scores or cancel any test score when, in their judgment, a testing irregularity occurs, there is an apparent discrepancy in a test taker’s identification, a test taker engages in misconduct, a test taker attempts to use the work or ideas of others as his or her own in the essay section of the test, or the score is invalid for another reason. ETS and the local ETS Preferred Network Office will also exercise their right to cancel any test score if they are unable to authenticate the results of any part of a test taker’s test. This includes, but is not limited to, the Speaking or Writing portion (for example, different voices or more than one voice within a Speaking test). Reviews of scores by ETS are confidential. When, for any of the aforementioned reasons, ETS or the local ETS Preferred Network Office cancels a test score that has already been reported, score recipients are notified that the score has been cancelled, but the reason for cancellation is not disclosed except when authorised by the test taker or in certain group cases.

TOEIC® Speaking and Writing Test Scores

Test Fairness and Score Use

The ETS TOEIC® programme and its authorised local ETS Preferred Network Office have taken steps to ensure, to the extent possible, that tests and test scores are fair for all test takers, regardless of gender, age, nationality, and test taker industry background.

Interpreting Scores

A Speaking test score and a Writing test score will be reported separately and should not be compared to each other. There is no combined score. Speaking test scores and Writing test scores are reported on a scale of 0 to 200. In addition to scaled scores, test takers will receive an indicator of general skills and abilities in Speaking or Writing. The Speaking test offers 8 proficiency levels; the Writing test offers 9 proficiency levels. Proficiency levels for the Speaking test should not be compared to proficiency levels for the Writing test. Additional information about TOEIC® Speaking and Writing scores can be found on <https://www.ets.org/toeic/organizations/research/topics/consistency>. If you have any questions about score interpretation, please contact your local ETS Preferred Network Office.

Release of Test Results

Local ETS Preferred Network Offices are required to publish score reporting timelines so that test takers can determine, prior to registering for a public TOEIC® Speaking and Writing test, when they may expect to receive their score certificate. Score certificates may be delayed if any type of security review is required. Test takers must be notified if their scores will be delayed or withheld. Depending on local policies, test takers may expect to receive their score certificate approximately 14 business days after the test administration.

Official Score Certificates and Score Reports

The official score certificates and score reports will provide you with your score on each section of the test. A description of the English-language ability typical of test takers in your proficiency level can be found on our website, <https://www.ets.org/toeic/test-takers/speaking-writing/resources/>.

If you take the test through your employer or sponsoring organisation this is an institutional test and your scores are provided to that organisation. It is the responsibility of your employer or organisation to provide you with a score report, which is only valid internally for that organisation. Some organizations will choose to only use a score roster and not provide a score report. If you take the test independently during a public test administration, you will receive your official score certificate directly from the local ETS Preferred Network Office. This official score certificate and your scores can be used worldwide. In addition to the section scaled scores, the TOEIC® Speaking and Writing Official Score Certificates and score reports provide extra score information.

Scaled Scores

The scaled score indicates your overall performance on each of the tests. The scaled score for each of the tests can range from 0 to 200 in increments of 10. Your scores indicate the general proficiency in speaking and writing that you have demonstrated by your performance on the tests.

Score Proficiency Level Descriptors

There are 8 proficiency levels for the Speaking Test and 9 proficiency levels for the Writing Test. The proficiency levels correspond to a scaled score range and describe the types of general skills and proficiencies in spoken or written English that are common for most people who have achieved a score similar to yours. The descriptor associated with the level that you have achieved will help you understand the strengths and weaknesses of your ability to speak or write in English. Testing Irregularities “Testing irregularities” refer to problems with the administration of a test. When testing irregularities occur, they may affect an individual or group of test takers. Such problems include, without limitation, administrative errors, such as improper timing, improper seating, defective materials, or defective equipment; improper access to test content; and other disruptions of test administrations such as natural disasters and other emergencies. When testing irregularities occur, ETS or your local ETS Preferred Network Office may decline to score the test(s), or may cancel the scores. When in their judgement it is appropriate to do so, ETS or your local ETS Preferred Network Office may give affected test takers the opportunity to take the test again as soon as possible without charge.

Plagiarism

ETS or the local ETS Preferred Network Office reserves the right to cancel the scores of test takers when, in their judgment, there is evidence that an essay or speaking response includes, for example, text or ideas that are substantially similar to that found in other TOEIC® responses, or the quotation or paraphrasing, without attribution, of language or ideas from published and unpublished sources. Such responses do not reflect the independent speaking or compositional writing skills that the test seeks to measure.

Test Score Data Retention

Scores are used to measure a test taker’s English proficiency at the time that a test is administered. Because English-language skills may improve or decline over time, a score report will not be reissued if two years have passed since taking the test. ETS does not require testing centres to retain test administration data beyond two years.

Score Reliability

To ensure the reliability of all of the TOEIC® Speaking and Writing tests, ETS adheres to a stringent 10-step process:

1. ETS recruits highly qualified applicants to be raters.
2. ETS reviews applicants' résumés and selects the best-qualified candidates to participate in rater training.
3. Rater candidates participate in extensive online training in which they train by scoring authentic responses.
4. Raters must qualify to score by first passing a certification test. Only certified raters may score ETS tests. This testing demonstrates that raters can score accurately.
5. Scoring leaders receive special training on difficult-to-score samples.
6. Raters use carefully developed rubrics and guidelines.
7. Raters must pass a calibration test before every scoring session. This testing ensures that raters are scoring accurately that day.
8. Scoring leaders monitor raters throughout the scoring process. If a rater is not scoring accurately, the scoring leader excludes the rater from scoring.
9. Scoring leaders and test developers use statistical reports to monitor rater performance during and after every scoring session.
10. Statisticians review and analyse all scoring results before scores are released.

Policies and Guidelines for the Use of TOEIC® Speaking and Writing Test Scores

Introduction

These policies and guidelines provide information about the appropriate use of TOEIC® Speaking and Writing test scores for corporations or schools that use the scores in making hiring, evaluation, and career promotion decisions, as well as school-related decisions. They are also intended to protect test takers from unfair decisions that may result from inappropriate use of scores. Adherence to the guidelines is important.

The TOEIC® programme and its local ETS Preferred Network Office have a particular obligation to inform users of the appropriate uses of TOEIC Speaking and Writing test scores, and to identify and attempt to rectify instances of misuse.

To this end, the following policies and guidelines are available to all TOEIC Speaking and Writing test takers, institutions, and organizations that are recipients of TOEIC Speaking and Writing test scores.

Policies

In recognition of their obligation to ensure the appropriate use of TOEIC Speaking and Writing test scores, the TOEIC programme and its local ETS Preferred Network Office developed policies designed to make official score certificates and score reports available only to approved recipients, to protect the confidentiality of test taker scores, and to follow up on cases of possible misuse of scores. The policies are discussed below.

Confidentiality

TOEIC Speaking and Writing test scores, whether for an individual or aggregated for an institution, are confidential and can be released only by authorization of the individual or institution or by compulsion of legal process.

Confidentiality of Scores

The TOEIC programme protects the information that is stored in data or research files held by ETS from unauthorised disclosure. Under certain specific conditions, this data may be shared.

- ETS's goal is to report valid scores, ones that reflect the test taker's own unaided abilities. In the interest of that goal, ETS and the local ETS Preferred Network Office reserve the right to share any and all information in its possession about a test taker and the terms and conditions of test taking with (a) any entity which ETS recognises as an authorised user of TOEIC test scores, including without limitation any entity to which ETS reports scores at the test taker's request, and (b) any government agency responsible for administration or enforcement of U.S. criminal and/or immigration laws.
- That information includes, but is not limited to, test taker identifying information, information concerning the conduct and findings of any test security investigation, and information regarding the test centre where the test was taken.
- Your score record and the documents you complete that are retained by ETS (for example, your photograph) may be released to third parties such as government agencies or parties to a lawsuit if requested pursuant to a subpoena or required by applicable law.

We recognise test takers' rights to privacy with regard to information that is stored in data or research files held by ETS and the local ETS Preferred Network Office and our responsibility to protect test takers from unauthorised disclosure of the information. For more information please visit www.ets.org/legal/privacy.

Encouragement of Appropriate Use and Investigation of Reported Misuse

All organizational users of TOEIC® scores have an obligation to use the scores in accordance with the guidelines that follow (i.e., using multiple criteria, accepting only official TOEIC scores, etc.). Organizations have a responsibility to ensure that all individuals using TOEIC scores are aware of these guidelines and to monitor the use of the scores, correcting instances of misuse when they are identified. The TOEIC programme and local ETS Preferred Network Office are available to assist institutions in resolving score-misuse issues.

Score Verification

Score users have the ability to verify score reports sent directly to them by test takers. Only score reports from the Public Testing Programme will be verified. At the written request of the institution or agency, ETS will verify the official scores recorded for you within the last two years. ETS or its authorised representative will also verify your score information at the request of any institution or agency that has a copy of your score report.

Guidelines

- Use Multiple Criteria: Regardless of the decision to be made, multiple sources of information should be used to ensure fairness and to balance the limitations of any single measure of knowledge, skills, or abilities. These sources may include graduate or undergraduate grade point average, years of experience in the target position, and recommendations from past supervisors and colleagues. When used in conjunction with other criteria, TOEIC Speaking and Writing test scores can be a powerful tool in making hiring, evaluation, promotion, or school-related decisions.
- Accept Only Official TOEIC® Speaking and Writing Official Score Certificates and Score Reports. The only official certificates and reports of TOEIC Speaking and Writing test scores are those issued by ETS or by the local ETS Preferred Network Office. If an organisation administers a TOEIC test internally, with ETS knowledge and approval, it can obtain and keep score reports of that test. However, those scores are intended for the use of the institution sponsoring the administration and not intended for use by other entities.

Scores obtained from other sources should not be accepted. If there is a question about the authenticity of an official score certificate, the question should be referred to the local ETS Preferred Network Office, who will then verify the accuracy of the scores and whether an official certificate was issued.

- Maintain Confidentiality of TOEIC Speaking and Writing Test Scores. All individuals who have access to TOEIC Speaking and Writing test scores should be aware of the confidential nature of the scores and agree to maintain their confidentiality. Policies should be developed and implemented to ensure that confidentiality is maintained.
